To Whom It May Concern,

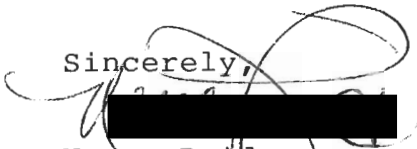

Eric Smith was instrumental in providing a wonderful event at Torrey Pines Convalescent Hospital. I met Eric Smith when he visited a friend of his at Torrey Pines and offered his Loving Care Center to do visitation or a Religious Service. I asked him if he could visit several residents and if he could provide a Religious Service on the 5th Sunday of the month to minister to our Resident's spiritual needs. He did provide visitation to these residents who may not otherwise have had visitors to fulfill their need for social interaction and spiritual needs and is scheduled to do the 5th Sunday Religious Service through the year 2000.

After a short time at Torrey Pines Reverend Smith asked me if I would be interested in having a fashion show at the Convalescent Hospital. He not only came almost weekly to the meetings but had a fashion coordinator to make sure the event was not only professional but the Event of the Year. The joy that this event brought to the residents is indescribable but we do have a video to show and remember the event for years to come. This event was excellent for the resident's self-esteem.

At Christmas time he brought a children's singing group which touched the hearts of many Residents and they truly enjoyed visiting with the children. On New Years Day the Loving Care Center brought in baskets filled with fruit which gave them a feeling of love and care.

The work that is being done by the Loving Care Center is greatly needed and we certainly hope they will continue to serve the Residents of Torrey Pines helping to meet the social, physical, emotional and spiritual needs of our Residents. Keep up the much needed good work.

Sincerely,

Nancy Reid
